

WINANS IS CHOSEN AS AN ELECTOR

JANESVILLE MAN HONORED AT MILWAUKEE YESTERDAY.

Opposed An Appointive Resolution,
But Afterward Withdrew His Motion—William Smith Defeated In the Canvass For Attorney General—
Mr. Winans' Speech In His Behalf.

Hon. John Winans, of this city, was one of the electors-at-large chosen at the state democratic convention at Milwaukee yesterday. John W. Bashford nominated Mr. Winans, and George W. Cate, of Stevens Point, Judge Cate desired his name not to be used, and John Winans said he came with a desire for no place on the ticket, but if it was the will of the convention he would consent and thank the convention for the honor. An eighth district man said that his delegation had come down to name a candidate; but would endorse Judge Cate and Mr. Winans. The roll call of districts was read, and each responded with an endorsement of the two men named. They were declared the unanimous nominees.

Committee to Fill Vacancies.
W. H. Rogers, then read from the platform the following resolution, which he submitted:

Resolved, That our state central committee shall, and the same hereby is authorized and empowered, in case of vacancy or other emergency, to substitute and fill any place that may become vacant on either state or electoral ticket, with the same power and effect as if the nomination had been originally made by this convention.

John Winans, Colonel Bird and others objected to the words "or other emergency" as giving too much power to the State committee, and creating a great danger. The chairman, in order to defend the State committee, said the resolution was drawn at his own suggestion, and John Winans said such a step was unprecedented in democratic conventions. Just then the sub-committee of the state central committee that had charge of the fusion deal came in, and Judge Morrow, one of the members, said he, too, had resolution on the subject, which were read.

Resolution Temporarily Tabled.
On motion of John Winans both resolutions were for the time being laid on the table. This prevailed and Judge Morrow reported on the fusion of electoral tickets by saying that Populists had settled on Albino A. Worsley, of Racine county, for the First district, Lester Woodard, of Columbia for the second and Charles L. Drekkey, of Barron county for the Tenth.

L. G. Bohmrich of Racine, said this would be satisfactory to the First district, J. W. Bashford expressed the satisfaction of the Tenth and Col. G. W. Bird of the Second indicated a willingness to comply with the arrangement. These were the districts affected and ended all question as to accepting the Populists' proposal. Reports by districts of the names of candidates for electors from the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth were then made, ratified and the Populist candidates were formally endorsed, which completed the electoral ticket.

Mr. Winans' Motion Withdrawn.
John Winans then said, the nominations having been made, he would agree to the resolutions that had been laid on the table, and withdraw his objections. The resolutions submitted by W. H. Rogers were then adopted.

L. G. Bohmrich introduced a motion thanking all the convention officers. Chairman von Cotzhausen responded with thanks for the consideration that had been shown him, and on motion of John Winans the convention adjourned sine die with three cheers for Bryan and for Silverthorn.

Janesville Man Made a Good Showing.

William Smith was not nominated by the democrats, for Attorney General, but he made a good showing. The Evening Wisconsin says: "John Winans, of Janesville, came upon the stage to nominate William Smith, of Janesville. When he looked over the convention, he said, he congratulated himself upon the fact that democracy still lived and was going to live in spite of the little gathering in Indianapolis, and it would continue to live in this state while it was run by such men as Peck, Cotzhausen, Wall and Silverthorn. But he was there, he said, not to praise the convention, but to nominate a man who if placed upon the ticket would be an honor to the convention and if elected an honor to the state. He was a lawyer of ability and could fill the bill as few men in the state could fill it. If elected, the people of the state would have cause to be proud of him. The First district from which he came needed encouragement. The democrats there were as good as any in the state. They could not give a democratic majority, but they could cut down the republican majority. Louis Bohmrich of Kenosha, seconded the nomination of Mr. Smith and the nomination was again seconded by J. M. Clancy of Madison, who said that he knew Mr. Smith to be not only an able lawyer but an up-right, honorable man, and the convention would make no mistake in nominating him.

The informal ballot resulted as follows:

Weed	240
Smith	191
O'Connor	84
Total	515

HOME GROWN MELONS A DRUG.

No Sale, Comparatively, For the Product of Local Acres.

Home grown musk and water melons seem to be a drug on the market, and they are being sold by the farmers to the local retailers for almost nothing. Before 7 o'clock this morning four different farmers were in the city with wagons loaded with melons, three of which were fortunate enough to dispose of their loads while the other deemed it better to take the melons home rather than accept the handsome sum of two cents each. With the retailers, five cents seems to be the prevailing price for good home grown fruit. Two young men, who are attending the local telegraph school and whose homes are in the far south, have received letters from home asking if there is any possible way of disposing of water melons in this part of the country. One southern grower says that he has a twenty acre "patch" and if he could realize a few dollars on a car load shipment, above the freight, he would willingly ship the fruit here.

MRS. FORD'S SONGS ALL SOLD.

Chicago Publishers Glad to Take All That She Offered.

Mrs. O. C. Ford has returned from Chicago elated over her success with Chicago music publishers. She has been asked to write exclusively for the McKinley Music Co., of which E. and A. L. Root are members and which is growing rapidly. She sold six of her songs—four outright, and the two best on royalty. These two will be sung by two well known roof garden stars. One, the title of which is "Only for Mamma," will be sung in newsboy costume at the Ferris Wheel garden next week and at the Schiller, September 12. After being heard in Chicago it will be taken to New York. The other "Oh, Let Me Come Home!" will probably become the property of Eddie Foy's leading baritone.

CHINESE GOODS GO THROUGH HERE

New Line of Business Now Handled by the Chicago & Northwestern.

A new line of freight is now being transferred through the city over the Northwestern road, which "makes more work for more men." The Northwestern road is now the connecting link between the Northern Pacific and the leading Eastern roads. A new line of boats are now running from Portland, Oregon, to China and the C. & N. W. road is one of the lines that contracts to carry the freight to the Eastern market. Large shipments of tea and silk that have of late going through this city are a part of the cargoes that come from China. A local official of the road said that these shipments would greatly benefit local railroad men, in the fact that each shipment required a "special" which meant the employing of additional crews.

S. C. CARR WRITES FROM GIBRALTAR

INTERESTING LETTER HAS BEEN RECEIVED.

Milton Junction Man Tells of the World's Greatest Fortress—Ready
For War Even In Times of Peace
—Gossip of Footville—The Week at Shopiere.

S. C. Carr got his foot on solid rock again August 17th, after a twelve day voyage. He picked out the most solid piece of footing in the world, moreover, for his point of debarkation was Gibraltar. In writing to The Gazette the Milton man remarks:

"We are sitting in the strongest fort in the world—a fort the gates of which no one hostile power can open. The rock—a great mound 1,400 feet high and about a mile wide—is honey-combed with tunnels through which Great Britain's enlisted soldiers have dragged great cannon to arm concealed batteries on the crest. We have been all through the towns and around the rock as far as we could go by land. The streets are very narrow, stores small and well filled. The market place is a hive of industry. Seven to eight thousand people come over from Spain every morning with hundreds of darkeys loaded with everything grown from the soil. There is a narrow, low neck of land between Spain and the Rock where these people pass through lines of soldiers.

"The very old, and queer ancient cemetery where Protestants and Catholics are buried side by side, Jews by themselves, just over the fence, I will not attempt to describe.

"Even in times of peace there is no relaxing of precautions. The great water gate closes at sundown, preventing communication between the docks and the city. All foreign ships are forced to keep half a mile from shore and a hundred tugs and row boats land visitors at 25 cents apiece."

In his next letter Mr. Carr promises to tell of Tangier—one of the oldest cities in the world.

FREE UNIVERSITY COURSES.

Work by Correspondence and College Education Received by Mail.

The last state university bulletin announces the adoption by the board of regents of the plan of instruction by correspondence. This means that anyone unable to attend the university, may arrange to take a course in whatever branches he may wish, or to prepare for a possible college course, entirely by correspondence. The work will be done under the guidance of the professors in whose departments the branches chosen come, and when the course selected has been completed under their supervision examinations will be passed. No degrees will be conferred by this method, but a student may complete one half the work required for bachelors or masters' degree and one-third of that necessary for doctors'; the remainder must be done at the institution.

The announcement of this decision will be greeted enthusiastically by any number of high school graduates and others who have wished for the university course which seemed impossible. Twenty different departments of study are offering courses by correspondence, including economics, political science, language, English literature, rhetoric, mathematics, music and some natural sciences. The work may be begun at any time. No examinations will be required before undertaking the correspondence courses. Applications are to be addressed to the State university, Madison, Wis.

Swiss Amusements.

"One of the pitics about Switzerland of today is that the people are forsaking their picturesque costume and dressing more and more in a conventional way," remarked a much-traveled New Yorker the other evening. "They don't seem to be such a lively people either, as they did ten years ago. Only in the large hotels, among the waitresses, or on holidays, do you see the women in what used to be their national garb. So far as I have observed, they are forgetting how to smile or yodel. I saw a statement in a Swiss paper the other day which leads me to think that these people keep all their jollity to themselves during the tourist season for fear it may interfere with their acquisition of wealth. This paper said that the authorities of the Canton Berne recently gathered to discuss, among other things, the question of 'dancing and other public amusements in restaurants.' The curious fact was further brought out that in this one canton alone there are 918 public dancing saloons against 410 churches. The other cantons did not seem to be quite so bad, only that of Uri having more churches than dance halls. I judge from this that a Swiss peasant I once asked if the winter was not somewhat dull after the tourist industry had stopped in October told the truth when he replied: 'Nay; when you've all gone away the belt time begins for us.'—New York Journal.

Still the Gas Was Lighted.

A certain member of congress, who is somewhat impressed with himself and his own importance, went to Boston once upon a time and stayed at the Tremont house—they say Tremont in Boston, you know, and Tremont out in Chicago. He didn't like the hotel. He didn't like the table. The beds displeased him. The rooms were not properly heated. Nothing was as it should have been. When he went to the clerk's desk in the office to pay his bill on leaving the congressman's displeasure found vent in words.
"I was never so uncomfortable in my life," he said to the clerk. "Your hotel is the worst in the country, sir, and I want to tell you one thing—one thing, sir—I am never going to stop at this house again—never, sir."A quiet-looking man who happens to run that hotel was standing by.
"John," said he, calmly, to the clerk, "I think you may light up this evening as usual."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

LOCAL LEAF MARKET VERY QUIET

Little Riding Is Being Done and Few Sales Are Made

Local tobacco market conditions are quiet in the extreme, says the Janesville Leaf. There is but little riding being done and but few sales of old goods are being made by farmers and we might say but few sales are being made by anyone, either on the farm or in the warehouses. There is a light demand for old goods from cigar manufacturers, but all sales are of diminutive nature; to meet the immediate demands of cigar makers. There is no attempt at speculation or to stock up. All business is of a hand to mouth nature. Packers report everything going out in very small lots and prices down to the ground floor.

The harvesting of the new crop is practically finished, as only a small patch here and there remains in the fields. Up to this week we have had good weather for curing, but this week is almost too dry for safety. Farmers should carefully keep all parts of the shed closed during the day and open widely at night to get the cool air and dews.

A Great Master Thief.

So long as Hind kept to the road his life was one long comedy. His wit and address were inexhaustible and fortune never found him at a loss. He would avert suspicion with the tune of a psalm, as when, habited as a pious shepherd, he broke a traveler's head with his crook and deprived him of his horse. An early adventure was to force a pot-valiant parson, who had drunk a cup too much at a wedding, into a rarely farcical situation. Hind, having robbed two gentlemen's servants of a round sum, went ambling along the road until he encountered a parson. "Sir," said he, "I am closely pursued by robbers. You, I dare swear, will not stand by and see me plundered."

Before the parson could protest he thrust a pistol into his hand and bade him fire it at the first comer, while he rode off to raise the county. Meanwhile, the rifled travelers came up with the parson, who, straightway mistaking them for thieves, fired without effect, and then riding forward flung his pistol in the face of the nearest. Thus the parson of the parish was dragged before the magistrate, while Hind, before his dupe could furnish an explanation, had placed many a mile between himself and his adversaries.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Editorial Idyl.

Softly the light from the open fire flickered and fell upon the man and woman sitting before it, as the evening drifted silently into the night.

It was the gloaming time, when there comes a hush upon the world and voices are stilled to whispers lest the day, as it sinks to sleep, may be disturbed.

They sat silent; thinking, thinking; dreaming of the far-away hours when love was young, and the flickering light drew strange fantastic figures on their faces.

At last the woman spoke, still gazing into the firelight, and her voice was soft and low as a strain of distant music across a moonlit lake.

"Husband," she murmured, "how sweet it all is? How much poetry there is in an open fire."

He stroked his brow as if starting from a dream.

"That's so," he responded, "but not half as much as there is in a stove."

Alas for the materiality of mundane things! He was an editor with a base-burner in his office and knew his business.—New York Recorder.

The Largest Kitchen.

The largest kitchen in the world is in that great Parisian store, the Bon Marche, which has 4,000 employees. The smallest kettle contains 100 quarts and the largest 500. Each of 50 roasting pans is big enough for 300 cutlets. Every dish for baking potatoes holds 225 pounds. When omelets are on the bill of fare 7,800 eggs are used at once. For cooking alone 60 cooks and 100 assistants are always at the ranges.

Always the Same.

Healthy, happy children make better men and women of us all. A little care and a little planning before birth is often more important than anything that can be done after.
On the mother's health and strength depend the life and the future of the children. A weak and sickly woman cannot bear strong and healthy children. Most of the weakness of women is utterly inexcusable. Proper care and proper medicine will cure almost any disorder of the feminine organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been tested in thirty years of practice. It is healing, soothing, strengthening. It is perfectly natural in its operation and effect.
By its use, thousands of weak women have been made strong and healthy—have been made the mothers of strong and healthy children. Taken during gestation, it makes childbirth easy and almost painless and insures the well being of both mother and child.

BIG RALLY TONIGHT AT CONCORDIA HALL

THE REPUBLICANS TO HEAR
SPEECHES THIS EVENING.

Captain Pliny Norcross to Make the Principal Address—Good Music Secured—Enthusiastic Meeting at Orford—Silver Discussion at Hanover By Jeffris and Metsker.

Jamesville republicans will rally at Concordia Hall tonight, and hear the first speeches of the campaign in the Bower City.

Captain Pliny Norcross will make the principal address, and his remarks will be worth hearing. Jamesville has no more pleasing speaker, and he is thoroughly posted on republican doctrines. Captain Norcross always says "the right thing in the right place," and Jamesville will turn out en masse to hear him.

President Wheeler, of the republican club, under whose auspices the rally will be held, announces that other speakers will also be present, and the meeting will be an inspiring one.

E. O. Kimberly, "Wisconsin's Soldier Singer," has organized a quartette, and vocal music will be rendered under his direction.

The Y. M. C. A. band will also be present, and will render the instrumental music.

A mistake was made in the small bills, announcing the meeting for Friday, September 5. It should have read Friday, September 4. All republicans, and all men interested in the public weal, should attend the meeting tonight. It will be an enthusiastic one.

Enthusiastic Meeting at Orford.

Orfordville, Sept. 3.—The republican campaign opened in Spring Valley, last evening, by a rousing meeting at the opera house in this village. The meeting was to have been addressed by Hon. J. G. Monahan, of Darlington, but owing to the serious illness of his mother, Mr. Monahan was compelled to cancel his engagement, and his place was filled by Hon. C. H. Fraser, of Lake Geneva.

Mr. Fraser made a masterly address showing clearly that there are other issues in the campaign beside free coinage of silver at the rate of sixteen to one, also that the democratic platform contained declarations which if carried out are even more pernicious than the revival of the "greenback craze." The speaker had his audience with him from the start, and was listened to with marked attention. Every point was vigorously applauded and the mention of the name of honored party leaders was a signal for hearty cheers. But when the climax of the evening was reached, and the speaker referred to William McKinley as the giant who was to stand between the "vicious beast," free silver, and the people. The shout that went up shook the ceiling of the opera house, and it was some time before he was allowed to proceed.

Surely, the meeting proves conclusively that the spirit of republicanism is alive and active in Spring Valley.

A republican club list was circulated, and received over one hundred signatures.

Silver Discussion in Hanover

A big picnic with a discussion of the silver question as the central feature will be held in Hanover Sept. 11. M. G. Jeffris will represent the sound money side of the question and Editor C. W. Metsker of Beloit, has been spoken of as the free silver speaker, although it is not known whether he will accept. An attendance of over a thousand is promised. The affair is under the management of the Hanover band.

A. E. Matheson and F. P. Starr will speak at Newark Town hall on Sept. 12 instead of Sept. 2, as The Gazette announced some days ago. A typographical error was responsible.

PROHIBITION CANDIDATES SPEAK.
Outdoor and Indoor Addresses at Beloit Last Night.

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 3.—J. H. Berkley, prohibition candidate for governor, spoke from a carriage to a small crowd on the street this afternoon, and was given respectful attention. He kept close to the liquor question and said the saloon was the real cause of the hard times. Hale Johnson, prohibition candidate for vice-president, spoke in the opera house tonight on the liquor question. A. G. Worsley, the free silverite, spoke on the street again tonight.

SETTLE THE FIGHT AT ATHLETIC PARK

ANOTHER "BASE BALL WAR" TO END HERE.

Jefferson and Fort Atkinson Nine Want to Have the Deciding Contest Occur On Neutral Ground As Neither Team Will Play in "The Other Town"

Another "base ball war" will be settled at Athletic park in this city. This time the celebrated Jefferson and Fort Atkinson teams will battle for the honors.

Landlord Coleman of Fort Atkinson, was in the city to see if Athletic park could be secured for the game. He was successful, and although no definite date has as yet been set, the game will take place within a short time.

Both the Fort Atkinson and the Jefferson teams are well up in the state league, and both clubs are made up of the best players that money can hire. There is great rivalry between them, and the citizens of each town are at swords points. The idea is to play one game to settle the matter of supremacy, but neither team would consent to play in "the other town." For two weeks the managers have been trying to "pull off" the contest. Failing to reach an understanding, it was finally decided to come here and fight it out. The Northwestern road has promised excursion rates, and as only the one game will be played, the crowd will doubtless be the largest ever seen in this city at a ball game.

Three local ball players left this morning for Evansville, they being Holleran, Brewer and Sullivan. Tomorrow afternoon the Edgerton and Evansville teams will meet and the Jamesville men will play with the Evansville team.

REUNION WAS A BIG AFFAIR.

About 150 Members of the Old Eagle Regiment Were Present.

Colonel W. B. Britton returned from St. Paul, last night, enthusiastic of the success of the Eighth Wisconsin. Nearly 150 veterans of the regiment were present, including Colonel Britton and four of his captains—a remarkable showing thirty-one years from the close of the war. There were cheers for Colonel Britton when he stood before the veterans, and it was intended to make him the president of the regimental association but he declined because of impaired hearing. Rev. Jesse Cole, of Iowa, was made president and Adjutant McDonald, secretary. There were speeches by General Hubbard, Col. Weissert and a thrilling address by Archbishop Ireland who was a chaplain in the brigade.

HOMEWARD RUSH HAS BEGUN.

Delegates and Others Are Returning From St. Paul in Train Loads.

The "homeward rush" has begun, and the crowds that passed through Jamesville on their way to St. Paul, are now coming back. The first special train pulled into the city this morning over the Northwestern road at 8:30 o'clock. Both sections were comprised of day coaches and sleepers. At 9:30 a special, consisting of nine Grand Trunk and Lake Shore and Michigan Southern cars, pulled into the city on the Northwestern. The conductor said that most of the passengers alighted in the vicinity of Black River Falls, and but few were in the cars when the train reached this city. Conductor James York was in charge of the train from this city to Chicago.

Long & Hodson, of the Linn street greenhouse, furnished several handsome pieces for the funeral.

MANY GOLD MEN IN THE WEST

So Says Passenger Agent T. H. Thorpe, of the Pennsylvania Road.

T. H. Thorpe, of Milwaukee, traveling passenger agent for the Pennsylvania railroad, arrived in the city today after a five months' pleasure trip through the west—the supposed silver stronghold. Mr. Thorpe reports plenty of McKinley men in all the so-called solid "silver cities," while in the state of California, gold men were to be found on all sides. Apparently the west is not so "solid" as the 16-to-1 shouters claim.

KEATOR IS RANKED AS A LABOR LENDER

HIS JAMESVILLE VISIT AWAITED EAGERLY.

He Was Sent to Europe By the Typographical Union, of Which He is a Member, to Study the Conditions of the Continental Labor Organizations

Theron P. Keator, who speaks in Jamesville Monday evening is orator of wide reputation, but he is more. He is a trained observer of economic and financial conditions. Workingmen are taking a lively interest in his meeting.

Mr. Keator is a union man of national prominence. He is a member of the Typographical Union and was sent to England, France, Spain and Sweden as commissioner, from the union to investigate the conditions of labor organizations in those countries. He is one of the most thoroughly informed men in the country on the history of labor organizations and on the work in other countries. An effort is likely to be made to induce him to make a brief address at the Labor Day picnic Monday afternoon on the subject of labor unions in Europe.

DR. JOSEPH BRADEN VERY ILL
But a Successful Operation Bids Fair to Save His Life.

Dr. Joseph Braden, formerly of Orfordville, but now of Waukesha, was taken suddenly ill while visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wallahan, at Orford, and for several days his life was in danger. Dr. James Mills was called to see him, and decided that Dr. Braden was suffering from an abscess of the kidney, and an operation was deemed necessary, to save him. The operation was performed by Dr. Mills, and was successful, fully a pint of pus being removed. Dr. Braden is now on a fair way to recovery, although the family had given up all hope prior to the operation, as he had undergone a previous operation at a Milwaukee hospital last winter.

Dr. Braden is widely known in Rock county, he having practiced medicine at Orford for many years. Two years ago he located at Waukesha, and was taking a needed rest at his old home when taken ill. His many friends will hope for his speedy recovery.

SOUND MONEY PETITIONS HERE

A. M. Valentine and George Sutherland Have the Jamesville Lists.

A. M. Valentine and George G. Sutherland, Jamesville's two most enthusiastic honest money democrats, are now at work getting signatures to the petition asking that the names of Palmer & Buckner be placed upon the official ballots. The petition must contain the names of one thousand Wisconsin voters, and Mr. Valentine said today that he would like to see Jamesville furnish half the names on the list for the state. Both Mr. Valentine and Mr. Sutherland have the blanks, and they can be seen, at their respective offices, by all democratic believers in sound money and national honor. When the petitions are complete they will be sent to the Secretary of State. Lists have been opened in all the leading cities of the state, and all sound money democrats are requested to affix their signatures.

HARVARD COAL STORY A CANARD.

Black Diamonds Cannot Be Sold There at $5.50 a Ton.

B. F. Keenan, representing the H. M. Benjamin Coal Co., of Milwaukee, was in the city today and says that he will buy all the hard coal that Harvard dealers want to dispose of at $5.50 a ton.

"There can be no truth in the report that hard coal is selling in Harvard at $5.50 a ton," remarked Mr. Keenan, "for coal costs them $7.25 a gross ton, that is if it is of the A No. 1 order." John W. Carpenter heard the story, and sent a letter ordering one thousand tons of a Harvard dealer this morning at the reported price of $5.50. He is now anxiously awaiting an answer.

DEATH.

[To a theosophist.]

Sooth, there are bodies of the dead, you say.
That, loitering, wait us filmy evidence,
Jingling and whispering to a mortal sense,
Mechanic numbers of a parlor play.
No! To our life, as to a holy day
Of godly wisdom and of penitence,
Is given no sight of the Supreme, but thence Shine symbols manifest, and as she may
Faith builds in emblem true and miracle
Mysteries, where the soul itself doth glass,
Where art, stern eyed, and visored duty well
Discourse of things eternal, until death
Rings for the veil to fall, the show to pass—
Discrete and discolored, he saith.
—George C. W. Warr in Academy.

THE GHOST OF WAYNE

As the small sailing yacht drifted slowly past the bluff at the entrance of Presque Isle bay the two men sailing her stood breathlessly watching the strange lights which seemed to rise and fall at intervals on the spot where the old blockhouse stood in the days when Mad Anthony Wayne, with his troops, was stationed at the fort and where he was buried in 1796. As the boat drew close to the shore Herbert Manning, the younger of the men who had been striving in the semidarkness to make out what the unusual lights were, grasped his companion by the arm, exclaiming excitedly: "Look! Look quick, captain! There are three persons on the ground where the old blockhouse was burned down. How queer they look. You can almost see through them. I move we get away from here; it makes my flesh creep." Captain Ross, who had a most profound contempt for the superstitious most of the sailors are imbued with, looked long and earnestly at the group before he spoke. At first he thought perhaps some hot headed feud was being settled with firearms at an hour of the night when they could best elude the vigilance of the authorities; but, not the figures which could be distinctly seen through the mist were unlike the people of the present day. The military man, standing with head erect and one hand extended as if issuing a command, looked wonderfully like the old portraits of General Wayne. Standing before him, with folded arms, was a young man in the dress of a lieutenant. His face expressed defiance and despair. Kneeling before the general was a slight girlish figure, with clasped hands raised in supplication to the stern man whose face looked hard and merciless in the blue ghastly light which made the scene so weird that the captain as well as his young friend began to have a weak feeling about the knees as they gazed spellbound through the mist at the uncanny pantomime. The woman, who seemingly had pleaded in vain, suddenly springing to her feet, threw her arms around the young lieutenant, and in that instant all three figures disappeared. No vestige of the scene enacted remained, although the yachtsmen, straining their eyes to trace a shadow of what they had seen, could distinctly see the ground upon which the ghastly trio had stood.

A moment later the moon, bursting through a cloud, shone clear and cold, showing the bleak spot where Mad Anthony Wayne had once been buried. "Who on earth were they, captain?" again asked the younger man with a glance at the bluff they were fast leaving behind as their sail, answering to a stiff breeze, carried them toward the lower piers. "I do not know, Bert," replied the captain with a short laugh, trying to conceal the nervous feeling he could not shake off. "I doubt whether it was any one 'on earth.' If the old story told by some of the sailors be true about the bluff being haunted by the spirits of 'Mad Anthony Wayne' and the young lieutenant he had shot as a deserter, I imagine we have seen the spooks tonight. I have never believed in ghosts, but this beats me. It is a trifle too supernatural to suit my taste. "I will tell you the story of General Wayne and his favorite lieutenant as it was told to me by an old resident of Erie, who moved there from Pittsburgh at the time Anthony Wayne died and was personally acquainted with the facts.

"We all know from history that General Wayne was one of the bravest and most daring soldiers of the Revolution, and as an Indian fighter had scarce his equal. He did not know the meaning of the word fear, and as a disciplinarian he was a terror to all who were under him. Among the young officers on his staff the one he liked best was a fair haired youth of 24 years, to whom he had given leave of absence to visit his bride, to whom he had been married but a few days when he received marching orders.

"He was a great favorite with General Wayne, who sent him away buoyantly happy with the permission to remain 48 hours with the object of his affection. At the expiration of that time he was to report promptly for duty. He started on his short journey with hearty good wishes and congratulations of the other less favored officers, who, although they might envy him, did not grudge him the 48 hours' freedom from duty, nor the happiness before him. It seemed a long time, but, alas, how short it was!

"The bride, a dainty little woman unused to discipline of any kind, with loving imperiousness so bewitched the heart and brain of the young husband that the hours flew on uncounted and the general's command to return in 48 hours was unheeded—was actually forgotten until four hours over the allotted time. They had passed before the lieutenant realized he had disobeyed orders, and he was about to return and sue for pardon, trusting to his good standing with the general to influence his granting it. It was a hope that showed how little he knew Anthony Wayne. There was not upon record a time when mercy was shown by him to one who set at naught one of his commands. Were his nearest, dearest friend to offend in that way, while under military regulations, he would mete out the full measure of punishment without flinching. No matter how palliating the circumstances nor how strongly his own heart pleaded for the offender, the offense must be met with the penalty laid down by the law. Woefully ignorant of this, our young hero was hopeful. He sincerely regretted his thoughtless act of disobedience, but his only fear of punishment was that he might be put under arrest for a few days.

"As he was bidding the little wife goodby and trying to reassure her that all would be well with him, two stalwart soldiers entered the door unannounced and, without further warning, arrested him as a deserter. 'As a deserter! Merciful heavens!' exclaimed the lieutenant, realizing in an instant the horror of all that meant.

"I am not a deserter! Who has dared to accuse me as such?"

"Our orders are from headquarters, sir," replied the sergeant, showing him a paper, the warrant signed by Anthony Wayne. The doomed man, crazed with the thought of what his fate would be, looked about wildly for some chance of escape, but the soldiers of General Wayne were too well trained to neglect their duty or to even show the pity they felt for the young man, whose offense, seemingly so slight, must yet pay the penalty of a base deserter.

"The few brief hours of happiness had cost them dear. What a sad—aye, terrible—ending of that short honeymoon! The girlish bride, white with terror, yet not realizing the awful sorrow before her, was sure that she could save her husband from punishment were she to plead for him with the general, who had been so gracious to her when they met that she could not believe him cruel. Hastily saddling her own horse, she had followed close behind the soldiers guarding her husband, determined that nothing should prevent her having an interview with General Wayne.

"Arriving at the fort, she dismounted, and, slipping past the guard before they could prevent her, had forced her way into the presence of the general. It was said of 'Mad Anthony' that, however stern and unbending he might be with his men, with woman he was tender, deferential and yielding. They could not believe the stories about his cruelty, and the little woman who stood before him was not prepared for the stern order given to the sentinel to 'escort this lady to the outpost and then report for lack of duty at once' who has dared to let her through the guards. 'This is no place for you, madam,' he said more gently, but throwing herself on her knees before him she pleaded as only a loving woman can plead for the man whose life is dearer to her than her own.

"She might as well have appealed to a rock as to Anthony Wayne, for, although every word she uttered stabbed him to the heart because he was fond of the young lieutenant whose future had seemed so full of well earned hope, yet no thought of granting the pardon in his power entered the stern commander's mind. In his estimation there could be no reprieve for a soldier who willfully or through careless disregard of orders had placed himself in the light of a deserter.

"Lieutenant G. stood before the man whose power was unlimited with folded arms awaiting his sentence. Without a plea for his life and honor, without the usual court martial, or, in fact, any chance of escape, he was condemned to be shot at sunrise as a deserter. Not a sign of agony felt was shown by the doomed man, whose bright young life was to pay the penalty of a few hours of happy forgetfulness of time, but as his wife, springing to her feet, threw her arms around him as if to save him and with a shriek of terror fell at his feet unconscious the lieutenant turned and looked at Anthony Wayne. It is said that General Wayne never forgot that look while he lived, and that when the report of the muskets reached his ears at sunrise that fatal morning he dropped his head on his hands and groaned aloud, and it was not well for the hapless soldiers who had business with him that day.

"One word from him might have saved that life, which lay like a gift in the palm of his hand—not only one, but two lives, for the girl bride never recovered from the shock of that day. Dying, she cursed the hard hearted soldier who took from her all that made life dear to her. For that reason, and because when the bones of General Wayne were taken from the grave on the bluff at Presque Isle and carried to their present resting place among his kin, the scalp and particles of flesh which had resisted decay being replaced in the old coffin and grave by the blockhouse, the superstitious sailors say that 'Mad Anthony' cannot rest, but that at intervals he comes to the old headquarters where that terrible tragedy was enacted so long ago. It is believed that he regretted that act of cruelty which he at the time thought imperative duty demanded in order that military obedience be enforced upon the soldiers whose hearts were filled with horror at the punishment meted out to the young officer whom they all loved.

"Regret comes too late when the coffin lid is closed.

"I don't know why we have been chosen as witnesses to the ghastly reappearance of the trio tonight, but I am glad to find myself once more among living creatures," added the captain as the boat touched the pier.

"Whatever mistakes were made by 'Mad Anthony Wayne,' he at least was a brave, dauntless soldier, and I for one say, 'Requiescat in pace.'"—Philadelphia Times.

The old lady looked up at him with an attempt at a smile and murmured, "I always had patience with fools."—Boston Woman's Journal.

The Difference.
Small Boy—Pa, what is the difference between a pessimist and an optimist?
Pa—Well, let me see if I can illustrate. You know I am often discouraged, and things don't look to me as if they'd ever go right. Well, at such times I can be said to be a pessimist. But years ago, when I was a young man, everything looked bright and rosy, and I was always hopeful. Then I was an optimist. Now, my son, can you understand the difference between a pessimist and an optimist?
Small Boy—Oh, yes; one is married and the other isn't.—N. Y. Weekly.

Not a Serious Question.
A friend of Col. Carter's was proposing a fishing excursion, and the colonel promptly and heartily expressed approval.
"We'll start the first thing in the morn'g, suh," he said, "so as not to lose any mo' time than is necessary."
"We'll first ascertain what the condition of the water is."
"Of co'se, if you feel so inclined. But yoh needn't bother on my account. I never dilute my bait."—Washington Star.

A Gentle Hint.
Paterfamilias (serenely)—There was a young gentleman with you in the parlor last night?
Sweet Girl (gently) — Yes, pa—Mr. Stayer.
"And it was after 11 before he went home, miss. I'd like to know what kept him so late."
"Well, pa, you looked so angry at me when you came in and saw him that I guess he thought I needed a protector, and so he stayed until he thought you were asleep."—N. Y. Weekly.

Reciprocity.
"And would you die for me?" the fair young thing asked.
"Well," the cruel man replied, as he fondled the golden braid that was hanging down her back. "I suppose it would be only doing the fair thing, since you seemed to have bleached for me."
Whereupon a solemn stillness enfolded them.—Cleveland Leader.

Unprecedented.
She—We were so disappointed, doctor, that you did not call Tuesday evening.
He—I was disappointed, also. The fact is, I was suddenly called to visit a patient—
She — Ah! That was it. Nobody could think of any reason for your absence.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Safety.
Mamma—I don't like the idea of that young Harris hanging around Jenny so much. He hasn't a cent except his little salary.
Papa—You needn't worry. They are both too busy talking about bicycles to have any time for lovemaking.—Detroit Tribune.

The Annual Rest.
Young Husband—My dear, after a year of unremitting labor and closest economy we have, I find, succeeded in saving about $300. What shall we do with it?
Young Wife—Well, my dear, we both need rest. Let's go to a summer resort for a week.—N. Y. Weekly.

Knew His Business.
Train Robber (to passengers in Pullman)—Be not alarmed, ladies and gentlemen, what few valuables you have left you are welcome to. I would be obliged, however, if some gentleman would direct me to the porter's quarters.—Bay City Chat.

Force of Habit.
His request that she would wed him she did not intend to scoff.
But she was a business woman.
So she answered: "Can't get off."
—Chicago Record.

MADE BY MACHINERY.
The Tourist—Most of your statesmen are self-made, are they not?
The Native—Not much. Most of them are made by political machines.—Brooklyn Life.

Fair Warning.
Kate—You say now that I am an angel.
Charlie—I do! You are!
Kate—Then take care that I don't use my wings after we are married.—Town Topics.

In the Barber Shop.
Customer—Is that the razor you shaved me with the last time?
Knight of the Razor—Yes, sir.
Customer—Chloroform, please!—Tit-Bits.

Good Advice.
"Say, I've had an offer to go to work for a Chicago wholesale house. What would you do if you were in my shoes?"
After a careful inspection—"I think I would black 'em."—Rockford Republic.

The Laugh Saved Trouble.
"Why do you laugh at his stale jokes?"
"If I did not laugh he would think I did not understand the jokes and would try to explain them."—Truth.

A Backward Pupil.
Dora—Can't you ride a bicycle yet?
Why, Mr. Silverspoon has been teaching you for three weeks.
Cora—I know it. But he hasn't proposed yet.—Tit-Bits.

Great Saver.
She—They tell me that Mr. Hustley saves all he makes.
He—That's what his creditors say.—

'Twas Always Thus.
They live in a small town, and she and her husband were preparing to start for a two days' visit to the city.
"What's that big book you're trying to put in the valise?" he asked.
"Oh, that's just a memorandum book," she replied.
"Memorandum book!" he exclaimed.
"Why, it's as big as a ledger."
"I know it," she admitted, "but you see I had to get a big one to hold the list of things that the neighbors want me to buy for them."—Chicago Evening Post.

Acting on a Suggestion.
"It is a peculiar trait of the American people," said the shrewd observer, "that they always want most what they think they are least likely to get."
"Do you feel sure of that?" inquired the politician.
"Certainly."
"Then perhaps I'd better send for a representative of the newspapers and decline that nomination again."—Washington Star.

A POISONED LIVER.

DON'T KEEP POISON IN YOUR BODY LONGER THAN YOU HAVE TO.
If your stomach poisons your liver the consequences may be serious. What poisons arise in your stomach come from undigested food which has decomposed there. They are absorbed by your blood and go to your liver, where they paralyze its functions and make you bilious. Finally they go into the blood again and are carried all over the body, disordering your different organs, and perhaps making you dangerously sick. This is the origin of many diseases which are not always known for what they are.

The poisons of undigested food can only be got rid of by the use of a purifying, strengthening digestive tonic, like the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

A few doses of this wonderful cordial will soon clear away all undigested, fermenting, poisonous substances, restore your appetite, aid you to digest your food, purify your liver and blood of all dangerous poisons, and restores you to perfect health.

It will cure biliousness, indigestion, nausea, headache, dizziness, mental depression, weakness, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, bad taste in mouth, stomach-ache, anemia, rheumatism, etc., where other medicines will barely give relief.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

Write for free book to The Shakers, 39 Reade Street, New York.

Advertising what you have not got or what you don't do is worse than not advertising at all. You can't well be too careful about this. Make your ads. strictly true in letter and in spirit. #### GOLD DEMOCRATS CHOOSE PALMER AND BUCKNER.

and so did North Dakota. Ohio gave Palmer and Bragg 16. Oregon divided half and half. Pennsylvania, after giving Bragg a complimentary vote, gave the other 63 to Palmer. Rhode Island and South Carolina voted solidly for Palmer. South Dakota gave 5 to Palmer and 3 to Bragg. Tennessee voted 21 for Palmer and 3 for Bragg, but Texas, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia voted for Palmer.

Senator Vilas in announcing the vote of Wisconsin said that he had been instructed by his delegation to disregard the command of Gen. Bragg, who wanted to cast his vote for Palmer, and he gave Wisconsin's solid 24 to Bragg. Georgia changed her 6 Bragg votes to Palmer, and then Gen. Bragg's voice was heard. He was forced to take the platform, and there moved that the nomination of Senator Palmer be made unanimous. Chairman Caffery submitted the motion and it was unanimously carried. Then the nomination demonstration began. But one circuit was made around the hall, and then some returned to their places, only to be lifted up and carried to where the Kentucky delegation was sitting.

The nomination of the vice-president was then taken up, and the chairman instructed the reading clerk to call the roll. That bright young man took in the situation and promptly called out "Kentucky." This raised a cheer for Gen. Buckner, and his name rose from all parts of the hall. William B. Browder, who had been selected to make the nominating speech, was obliged to wait until the convention had calmed down. The instant Mr. Browder closed his address a delegate sprang up and moved to nominate Gen. Buckner by acclamation. It received a dozen seconds and was carried with a great roar, and Chairman Caffery declared that Gen. Buckner was the nominee of the convention for vice-president of the United States.

After passing a resolution giving the national committee the usual authority and another thanking the temporary committeemen for the work they did and another thanking the people of Indianapolis for entertaining the convention so handsomely, a North Carolina delegate asked Chairman Caffery if he remembered the remark made by the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina. This hint produced a motion to adjourn, and the motion was carried forthwith.

The successful division was the John Barr Glenn division of Eau Claire. The Garden City division of Chicago was scheduled to compete with it, but withdrew. The parade of the uniform rank included 2,200 men and was over two miles long. It was the largest body of the fraternity militia ever gathered in the northwest.

LONDON'S OLD DIARISTS.

Observed Every Circle of Society and Set Down Everything Seen.

The diarist was always on the move, opened every door through which he could gain admittance, listened to the talk of every circle and set down all that he observed and heard, says the Quarterly Review. As we read, the old London, which the fire swept away, rises from its ruins, as well as the more stately city which so speedily replaced it. We see the river alive with traffic (nervous people dreading the almost inevitable drenching as they "shoot the bridge") and feel almost as though present in person at the yacht races, pleasure trips to Greenwich or "More-clackie" and the sumptuous water pageants which are so picturesquely described. The great palaces of the town, and its ancient churches reappear in their splendor; we are jostled along the narrow streets with their quaint signs and pick our way about the dirty squares. The life of the court and the city, the resorts of the learned, the haunts of the loungers, the excitements on 'change, the civic functions, the royal masques and balls, the "revels" at the inns of court, the festive dinners, the promenade in the parks and public walks, the recreations in the Mall, the diversions of Fox hall and Mulberry garden, the savage sports of the cockpit and of Southwark fair, the cruel sights of Tyburn and at Temple Bar, the pillory in Cheapside, the duels and street brawls, the accessories of the restored theater, the humors of "Fops' corner" and of Fleet alley, Slingsby's lottery, Lely's studio and Nell Gwynne's dressing room, all moved before us in living tints on the canvas of this marvelous panorama. We can watch our forefathers at church and market, and notice their "company manners" and follow them into the privacy of their homes. The customs of Twelfth Night, May Morning and St. Valentine's Day assume a fresh interest when we see how they were observed by our hapless ancestors who had yet to learn that time was money. We watch the hackney coaches ply their slow course over the stones, mark the gleam of the link which escorts the belated banqueters home at night and are roused by the monotonous call with which the sleepy watchman breaks the dull silence of the dawn.
